Building automation isn't just for big retailers anymore

Running a retail business is hard enough without wasting money unnecessarily on energy. Big-box retailers and malls use building automation systems to cut their energy bills while optimizing customer comfort, but those systems have been too expensive and impractical for the average retailer. Until today...

Schneider Electric™ has developed a solution tailor-made for small- and mediumsized retail stores. Instead of just a thermostat, you can have the kind of building control capabilities that big-box stores enjoy.

Make your store more competitive

Take control. Manage HVAC and lighting from anywhere. Set up schedules. Even manage multiple stores from one location.

- Enhance your customers' retail experience. Maintain temperature and lighting for the best retail experience, and in a way that's optimized for your business.
- Cut energy waste and costs. See energy spend, what's trending, and where to save.
- Reduce maintenance costs. Repair costs are high and the disruption to your business is costly. Get alerts about equipment performance and avoid emergencies.
- Show quick ROI on your bottom line. Schneider Electric can show you how much your store can save.

Did you know?

- Retailers spend up to 35% of operating costs on energy.
- Energy spend equates to nearly $20B per year.
- Schneider Electric retail solutions deliver up to 30% in energy savings

The energy savings can be the equivalent of one hundred extra customers a month.

Put our solution to work in your retail space

Your business depends on a flow of happy customers. You can't afford to close your store or restaurant for days while new systems get installed, or pay overtime for night work—and with Schneider Electric, you don't have to. Leveraging wireless technology, our solution is affordable, nondisruptive, and can be installed during business hours. Your customers won't even notice!

A fully scalable solution

- Start with simple HVAC management through our application-specific room controllers.
- Enable central visibility of your HVAC system through wireless technology – our Ecostruxure Building Expert Software (with no license fees!).
- Integrate lighting control to create the perfect environment, as well as occupancy sensors for proactive energy management.
- Expand control across your entire enterprise with our cloud-based Building Insights solution.
- No matter which level of solution is right for you, eliminate

Did you consider?

- A happy customer is a repeat customer. Why not start that journey with an ideal environmental experience?
- It's true and it's trending. Environmentally-friendly establishments attract customers – all while improving their carbon footprint.
- The best part is, you can have all of this with minimal downtime or disruption to your daily operations.
- No lost revenue.
