APC Channel Partner Program Overview

When our partners speak, we listen. APC by Schneider Electric works hard to ensure we offer the services and tools necessary for our partners to be more successful and ultimately more profitable. Our focus and improvements all come down to providing profitability, enablement, support, and an overall better partner experience. This is Partnership, evolved.

We now offer a more flexible, better targeted program that includes new solutions and services not offered before. We are working to make the program easier to use through process and online changes. You will discover that you have an increased ability to move up through the program levels to access additional benefits. Working with APC by Schneider Electric will lower your business risk with proven quality and results – like saving your customers up to 30% on their energy costs.

What level you choose to join and grow in the program depends on your business – your focus, your goals, and your needs. Below is the structure of the program, which includes four levels with new certification areas available under each level.

The program offers clear and differentiated paths based on different disciplines, allowing you to leverage free training, pricing and benefits.

Gain full access to our network of qualified and dedicated solution engineers, ongoing support, and visibility into where the market is going and where you can take your business.
